

Treat Your Windows...and Yourself

Windows treatments are the finishing touches on a home

When it comes to window treatments, there is so much to choose from it can be confusing. Are you a fan of shutters? According to Kevin and Connie Little of Shutter Envy, plantation shutters have been extremely popular and are manufactured with solid basswood, alder or composite wood materials. Perhaps you like the softer approach with cellular or Roman shades. There's also a wide range of blinds; from vertical to roller and everything in-between. The sky is the limit and the possibilities are endless.

Customers often don't realize what a difference window coverings make when decorating their home. Consider cutting back a little on the sofa and then spend the money to tie the room together with professionally installed window treatments. Trust us, it will make a difference, and we promise that when you step back and have a look at the entire room, your window treatments will make the room POP!!!

We recommend an in-home visit so the potential customer can see exactly how the various window covering samples will look inside their home with their decor, comparing colors and styles of various products. Plus, Shutter Envy offers installation of your product at no additional cost.

Because Shutter Envy does not have to maintain a large, expensive showroom, they're able to offer window coverings at very affordable prices. Connie adds, "We offer products from all price ranges depending on what customers want".

So for that finishing touch to your home, add window coverings that are affordable, plus exceptionally durable. Most of them come with a manufacturer's lifetime warranty. We're confident that you'll be glad you called. At least 50% of our customers come from referrals or repeat customers. E
